FAIRHAVEN HIGH SCHOOL

Most masterpieces are thought to hang on walls of quiet, well guarded museums, carefully protected from all atmospheric excess and shock. This is the fate of great paintings and sculpture. Not the work of great architects, however. Their works weather the storms and bear the wear of a thousand footsteps. The walls and ceilings dry and then dampen with the air and show the leaks of time. To walk through Fairhaven High School is to marvel at an art that is well beyond time and price. This is a palace of knowledge that is filled with the treasure of the nineteenth century. Henry Huttleston Rogers used his millions to construct a truly great building and of materials of the finest quality. He turned to the most gifted artisans of that age to sculpt and carve the marble, the wood, the plaster into marvels of art. It was, no doubt, a marvel 75 years ago. Today, it is a miracle no longer possible to duplicate even if unlimited funds were available.

Walk again through Fairhaven High School and you see at every step the result of talent of the highest order. You experience an awe that comes on beholding a treasure. Even today, marred by mishaps of aging and weathering, this structure must rank among the finest of its kind ever built in the United States. The students, thousands of them, must count themselves as among this country's elite to have been privileged to study in an atmosphere so inspiring. You tend to forget detail with the passage of time but a visit to a source such as this brings back memory with a clarity that is perhaps better than the original impression because it is enhanced by experience. What can be taken for granted at 16 can be overwhelming at maturity.

No wonder that people who have remained in close contact with such a structure are eager to bring it back to its true glory. In taking the photos for this issue, I was surrounded by impressions of beauty. Only a critical eye turning to the corners of the rooms sorted out the ugly scars and, once noticed, these stand out like beacons in reverse demanding attention even while repelling the eye.

Mary Battaini, who heads the Alumni Fund group, is proud to point out that most of the damage is due to the aging process and accidents of weather. The old wood needs oil, the ceilings need paint, the marble needs cleaning and the wear needs repair. It is apparent that most of the thousands of young students who use the building sense that they are in the heart of a masterpiece and use it with appropriate care. Only very few have deliberately done damage to surfaces. Fairhaven teachers will tell you that, until the dress code was abandoned, there was almost no evidence of any but accidental damage.

The Committee has sent out over 7000 letters to alumni and it was a monumental task, nevertheless a labor of love. No one who has seen this building could fail to be impressed, no alumni who has lived in such surroundings could fail to respond with great pride and true appreciation.

The one million dollars (raised by the town of Fairhaven by means of a bond issue) was used on the exterior of the high school. Directed by expert architects, precious stained glass has been protected by plexi-glass shields, leaking gables have been tightened and re-lined with copper, gutters have been cleaned or replaced, decaying window frames renewed and new energy saving panes, crumbling chimneys have been rebuilt, great granite blocks have been re-grouted, and many more miracles have been effected.

With no more money to handle repair and renovation of the interior of the building, on October 23rd of last year a meeting of

Selectmen's Meeting

MANSFIELD MOORING AGREEMENT

Selectmen held an informal discussion with the Mansfield family and their attorney and progress was made toward simplifying the dispute. Selectman James Huntoon had requested the meeting with the Mansfields so that he could be brought up to date on the previous meetings which took place before he was elected to the Board. Town Counsel Donald Fleming was present to represent Mattapoisett's interests since court action is still pending on the issue of marina use of the Mansfield property. There are several actions in progress. There is a cease and desist order appeal pending, a harbormaster order to remove the moorings under appeal to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, a request by the Mansfields for non-commercial use of the moorings.

Selectman Huntoon said that it became apparent to him that the Board of Selectmen was not the controlling body in the affair. He said that since the Board of Appeals was the legal decision maker, the control was with that board, and since it concerned moorings, as well, the harbor-master also had authority in the issue.

William Mansfield, Sr., as spokesman for the family, said that 10 moorings are in the harbor, 3 used for family boats and 7 requested to be used by friends at no fee. He asked, "Does everyone in the harbor mooring boats have the mooring permit in their own name?" He said he questioned this and stated that, if litigation had not begun, his mooring would not be in question. He said that friends using the moorings would gain access over his property and he would have them sign an affidavit to the effect that mooring use was non-commercial.

Attorney Fleming asked, "Does that mean that all these people will rent the moorings as soon as litigation is terminated?" He said that moorings were not the issue but that it is a zoning issue - that of operation of a commercial venture. Mr. Fleming said that if the Mansfields have an underlying agreement that they will rent the moorings later, then the issue is still a business question.

Mr. Huntoon said that it appeared to him that a release might be drawn and signed by all parties to allow the Mansfields the convenience of the use of the moorings and still not prejudice the special permit court action. He said it would be in the town's interest as well as the Mansfields' interest to narrow the focus to the zoning issue and thus get rid of all the other issues under litigation. He asked if the Mansfields could agree and they readily assured Mr. Huntoon that they would be eager to limit their appearances in court.

Attorney Fleming asked if the Mansfields would stipulate that placing moorings in Mattapoissett harbor constitutes part of a marina under the Mattapoissett by-laws. He asked if the Mansfields would agree that a special permit is required. Secondly, he asked that, if the town prevails in the court action, would the Mansfields agree not to sell the moorings anchored in the harbor, and would remove all but family moorings.

Selectman Huntoon requested that Town Counsel Fleming draw up an agreement to be presented to the Mansfields for consideration.

ONE WAY WATER STREET

In a meeting of the residents and business people in the area of Water Street Selectmen decided to make Water Street one way south and east from Church and Main Streets to North Street. It was agreed by businessmen that the present 15 minute zones are violated continually and Police Chief James Moran said that the 15 minute parking could be enforced only if a cruiser was on the spot at all times which was clearly impossible. Selectman Huntoon made the proposal for the one way flow of traffic. Pearl Street would change to a one way south flow; Cannon Street would remain one way south; Main Street would be one way south from Church Street; and Water Street would be one way east from Main Street to North Street. It was also agreed to try unlimited parking on the north side of Water Street and 15 minute parking on the south side from Pearl Street to Barstow Street. Selectmen said that they will consider having a foot patrolman in this area from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. during the summer season.

MY THOUGHTS ON OUR SWANS

There is nothing more beautiful in nature than a family of swans. How proud the parents are when they hatch a brood of baby swans. Our swans hatched a brood of seven babies for the first time in three years. They were so proud and yet so friendly. Yet within one week the babies were taken from them leaving the parents searching the marshes and the eel pond looking for their family.

I believe some thoughtless so-called human beings have caught the little cygnets to raise but more probably to kill these babies.

Anniversary

poisett, Mass.02739.

The race is restricted to Mattapoisett, Marion and Rochester only. Naturally, full time summer residents are eligible, but must provide proof of residence. The race route, which is exactly five miles long, begins at the southern most point of Point Connett and finishes in the village. It may be the last year the race route will be point to point and non-affiliated.

The race record is held by William Mansulla who in 1971 set a blistering pace with an incredible time of 25 minutes and 44 seconds (5:09 per mile).

Literally, hundreds of townspeople have become involved in our traditional road race. The Mattapoisett Police and Rescue Squad provide valued services as do race timers, neighborhood corner spotters, cold soda donations, newspaper reporters and this year our area merchants who are sponsoring our race.

If you have any further questions or would like to help in any way to help our race please contact Brian Bisson, Robert Gardner or Andy Wingate, your Race Committee.

No other yearly event marshalls so many diverse and enthusiastic supporters --- it is truly a total community effort. We need your help this year as in the past.

This year's Road Race offers more trophies, more T-shirts, more everything than any previous years' races and will be the very best yet. Run for the health of it!

Your Race Committee

TEXTBOOKS MUST BE RETURNED

In light of the effects of Proposition 2 1/2, it is most important that all text and library books are returned by students at the end of the year. The following procedure will be followed:

No student will be allowed to sit for an exam unless the textbook has been returned and accepted by the classroom teacher. In the event a book is seriously damaged, the student will be required to pay for the book at that time. All faculty members are informing their students of the replacement cost of their texts.
